

Along with other Hope business men your correspondent spoke to a group of southwest Arkansas high school seniors gathered here yesterday for the annual Career Day. I told the students as effectively as the experience hit me when it actually happened 27 years ago. It was about a quiz for journalism students. The professor took the bare facts out of an old newspaper clipping, reshuffled them, and then doled 'em out to the pupils with instructions to pick the most important point and try to write a duplicate of the original story (which clipping he kept safely hidden in his pocket).

The facts were: A famous racing stable burned. It was a spectacular New York fire, destroying $300,000 worth of blooded horses. High society folks owned the stable. No one died in the fire except an old tramp.

Those were the facts. Some of the students, like myself, were horse-lovers; and we built our news stories on the spectacular loss of livestock. But we were wrong.

When the clipping was finally produced and read to the class it featured the tramp. A man was dead. The man had an aunt in Chicago. She was notified by the press, and she was able to start for New York to bury her homeless relation.

Horses, said the instructor, don't have kinfolks that read newspapers.

The place was the Pulitzer School of Journalism, Columbia University. The clipping was from the old New York Herald Tribune, and the professor was Charles Cooper, for 25 years night managing editor of the Herald—a good story in 1922, and just as good in 1949. . . as I discovered yesterday.

A great moment in a great life when Winston Churchill came to this passage in his Boston speech Thursday night.

"Why have they (the Russian Politburo) deliberately acted so as to unite the free world against them. It is certainly not because there are not very able men among them. Why have they done it?"

"It is because they fear the friendship of the West more than its hostility."

"They can not afford to allow free and friendly intercourse to grow between the vast area they control and the civilization of the West."

"The Russian people must not see what goes on outside, and the world must not see what goes on inside the Soviet domain."

"Thirteen men in the Kremlin, holding down hundreds of millions of people and aiming at the rule they must keep up at all costs. Self-preservation that for Russia but for themselves, lies at the root and is the explanation of their sinister and malignant policy."

Listening to Churchill's speech I thought of the Russian Revolution. The key man in Russian republic and setting up today's war-like Soviet dictatorship was Leon Trotsky, who came over here and published a Communist newspaper in New York City—turning to Russia in 1917 to become dictator.

Democracy certainly is long-suffering in tolerating vipers which leave our very bosom only to become our implacable enemies.

Bread-and-butter won't be spelled as one word any longer in Wisconsin.

Yesterday the House of Representatives passed the bill to repeal Polcomargine taxes and sent it to the Senate, where it is assured of final enactment this week. Thus ends the intolerable and illegal (despite a political decision by the Supreme Court) practice of levying internal tariffs between the individual states—against Southern cotton oil products and for Wisconsin dairy products.

Senator J. W. Fulbright was one of the modern crop of Southern leaders who finally helped bring off this victory after two generations of injustice and political bafflement.

But the smirch on the reputation of the United States Supreme Court as a giver of law and a dealer in justice is something no act of congress can remove.

Would Extend McArthur Plan in South China

Boston, April 2 — (AP) — Harold E. Stassen said last night that this nation should move against communism by "bolstering" southern China and all of Asia with a billion-dollar-a-year "MacArthur plan."

Such a move, patterned after the Marshall Plan, is needed, he said, to make up for "inaction or withdrawal of aid which contributes to the Communist domination of China."

The 42-year-old University of Pennsylvania president shared platform honors with Winston Churchill at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology convocation of scholars and thinkers at Boston garden.

"We should move, and move promptly," Stassen said. "To bolster the southern half of China."

Stalin and the entire philosophy of communism were attacked by the speaker who said he saw little difference between the "fuehrer principle of Hitler's system" and the "centralism of Stalin's."

The "MacArthur plan" was brought up after Stassen declared: "Clearly the Marshall plan in Europe has been the most significant single right thing we have done since the end of the war."

"It is high time that we have a parallel MacArthur plan in Asia."

The new idea, he said, would be "not a program for Japan, a program for China, for Burma but an Asia-wide plan."

He described it in this way: "Giving due consideration to European needs and to our own total economic situation and capacity, we should regularly invest a portion of our resources in Asia for the resistance to Communism."

"The amount should be a minimum of a billion dollars a year. It should be administered on an Asia-wide approach, preferably in relation to local provinces and individual projects in underdeveloped private endeavor rather than being funneled through any central, major government."

It should have "the same concept of objective and requirement of self-help as the Marshall plan."

Stassen, who appeared as a replacement for President Truman on the program, described Soviet Russia's Communist leaders as "restrained only by their appetite for power."

He said of those leaders: "They believe that someone will rule by force and from their standpoint it had better be them."

Stassen said he regarded the United Nations as "sadly inadequate," but cautioned against "underestimating its value."

He made light of the idea that even an atomic war could destroy civilization.

"I can never wipe out entirely through the world the curious combination of progress and civilization," he said.

Churchill, who was on the platform to receive M. I. T.'s award of an honorary lectureship, later told the audience of nearly 1,000 that Stassen's was a "thoughtful and powerful address."

"I cannot conceal from you," Churchill said, "that I find myself in agreement with you on very many points of substance and on all points of sentiment."

The big sports arena was still as he said: "X x x if I may feel that in our own small island across the ocean we have reached conclusions which are in broad harmony with those of the great republic, we may indeed face the future with confidence and hope."

Then he added: "And let me give my assurance that this great advance, one of the finest I have ever addressed, that without their aid, without their guidance and strength, all the struggles of our soldiers and sailors that they have won might be lost."

away, but the peace which they carry us — may well carry us — through the dangers which lie ahead and may possibly avert from humanity the fearful curse of another war."

Rent Ceilings Lifted in Four States

Washington, April 2 — (AP) — rent ceilings were lifted today on 500,000 dwelling units in four states.

Housing Expediter Tighe Wds said more than 80 other areas in 23 states will be decontrolled within a week.

Woods accompanied the repeal of restrictions with a sharp warning that ceilings will be slapped again if "an unreasonable increase" in rents results from the move.

Twenty areas in Alabama, Indiana, New Jersey and Texas are affected by the initial decontrol.

The move resulted from pressure which empowers Woods to move ceilings anywhere in the nation but to put them back on if "usual rent boosts result."

The housing director said it is clear that his agency will "dine out" on rents in decontrolled areas. He said local "hoary" boards have been told to pay in existence and keep intact machinery to enforce new rulings, "should the need arise."

Information now available, Woods asserted, is "inclusive" as to whether the demand for rental housing has been reasonably met in the areas involved in the present series of moves.

Pollard Gets 99 Years for Killing Baby

St. Louis, April 2 — (AP) — William Morris Pollard is under 99 year sentence in the Missouri state penitentiary today for killing a 21 month old baby "because it cried."

Pollard, 26, has been in and out of mental institutions 20 times.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of second degree murder yesterday. While waiting for trial Pollard had slashed his wrists and gone on hunger strikes.

He was arrested in Chicago last November three days after the severely injured body of Joseph Edward Nichols was found in a dresser drawer in a downtown hotel here.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nichols of Huntington, W. Va., was left by his mother with Pollard in a Virginia hotel. She visited her husband in Chillicothe, O., mental hospital. Nichols and Pollard had met and become friends there. Pollard was to have taken the child to Mrs. Nichols' mother in Cincinnati.

A court-appointed psychiatrist found Pollard "sane enough to know right from wrong, but subject to psychotic episodes."

State Voters to Name New City Officials

By the Associated Press

Arkansas voters will name city officials and pass on such community issues as annexation, parking meters, pensions and commission government in municipal elections next Tuesday, April 5.

At least seven of the state's major cities, Hot Springs, North Little Rock, Jonesboro, Stuttgart, Fayetteville, Conway, El Dorado and Fayetteville, will choose new heads for their city governments.

In at least two other cities, Blytheville and Camden, present mayors are opposed for re-election.

Six candidates seek to be the new mayor of the politically turbulent resort city of Hot Springs. Mayor Earl Ricks, serving his first term, has been appointed adjutant general of the Arkansas National Guard and is not a candidate for re-election.

Aspirants for his post are William Seitz Jr., Alderman J. B. Johns, Joe Davidson, Frank Carpenter, Floyd Housley and George Hasting.

Also, there are 31 candidates for the eight jobs as aldermen in Hot Springs. They include one woman, Mrs. Gladys Thornton, and a Negro, L. C. Woods.

The next largest field of mayoral aspirants is in Jonesboro, where they seek to succeed Mayor Roy Peay, derelict and has endorsed for re-election and vote on installation of parking meters and annexation of territory southwest of the city.

In Little Rock, Mayor Sam Wasel is unopposed.

Re-elected Mayor will be the new mayor of North Little Rock. He defeated Mayor Eldor Johnson in the Democratic primary.

In Stuttgart, Fred Wilcox, nominated at a recent caucus, is without opposition.

Mayor Howard Horst, the hottest issue in the Rice capital is the question of a city manager and commission form of government, which also will be on the city general election ballot.

A. C. Leavelle, former Arkansas Power and Light company official, will become new mayor of El Dorado without opposition. He was nominated in the Democratic primary, defeating Mayor John M. Blackford, who was seeking a third term.

El Dorado voters also will vote on an annexation proposal which would increase the city's area approximately one-fourth and the population by about 3,500. If approved, it would be the first expansion of the city since 1902.

Says Red Cross, Army Running a 'Baby Mill'

New York, April 2 — (UP) — An affidavit on file in general sessions court today accused the army and the Red Cross of approving a nationwide baby mill to dispose of the illegitimate children of army nurses.

The affidavit, petitioned dismissal of baby adoption racket charges against Mrs. Alice P. Satterthwaite.

It was filed yesterday in general sessions court by Curtis E. Frank, saleswoman, and former social worker, Frank said he had been retained by 40 couples who had been refused to keep the babies they obtained through Mrs. Satterthwaite's "free" adoption service.

The statement said Mrs. Satterthwaite had acted as a "good samaritan" for army nurses who returned to the U. S. in "pregnant condition" during the war. It said she acted at the specific request of the Red Cross Nursing Service.

The head of the Red Cross Nursing Service here at that time knew Mrs. Satterthwaite through her work in the social service field and determined, apparently with the knowledge and approval of the army and Red Cross to enlist her services in helping these girls place their babies for adoption," the affidavit said.

Frank said the court's investigation had frightened a number of national mothers who feared a publication of individual cases which Mrs. Satterthwaite handled. He said one woman had threatened to commit suicide.

Frank moved for a dismissal of a charge of violating the social welfare law against his client on the grounds that she did not receive payment for her services.

Owens W. Bohan adjourned the case until next Friday when the district attorney's office asked time to draft an answer to the affidavit.

Mrs. Heart, Here Is a Way to Spend the Remaining Year of Your Life — See the World

By HAL BOYLE

New York — (AP) — To "Mrs. Heart," general delivery, Oklahoma City: The newspapers say you are a mile-a-minute, dying of ticker tape and you are lonely. And you are how to spend the last year of your life—and the $10,000 you have.

Don't worry. You'll get plenty of advice. Most of the letters will end up with a request for some of your $10,000.

I've got an idea for you, too. You say you want a plan or a purpose. You say everything you do seems "silly or useless." And you are lonely, and the doctor's death sentence—"prognosis: unrelaxable"—has left you with "a reckless kind of feeling."

Well, Mrs. Heart, why don't you do something that many might regard as silly, reckless and perhaps useless? Death is a voyage of discovery. Why don't you make the last months of your life a voyage of discovery, too?

You've provided for your daughter out of the moderate fortune you built as a business woman after your husband died in the first world war. That leaves you with no family responsibility. For the first time in your life you are foot-loose and fancy free.

Since you are going soon on a long journey alone out of your choosing, why don't you go on a long journey now of your own choice—around the world? And share it, Take along as companion a young girl or boy of your own age, and let the young person's window to the world and tragedies of earth, and you will live longer than you think. For no one dies who is remembered gratefully.

There is so much to see and learn, and no reason ever to stop learning. They say Goethe found a fresh new world by taking up the study of Greek at 80.

Go first to England and France and look at their famous cathedrals by dawn and twilight. These tall towers of the spirit have eased many hearts through centuries.

If your husband was killed in France, go see where he fell and

No Enemy of Russia Says Churchill

New York, April 2 — (AP) — Winston Churchill said today he is "no enemy of the Russian people."

"It is a very dear wish in England to be friends with the Russian people but you can't get near them," the wartime leader declared at a news conference after boarding the Queen Mary to sail home.

It is a great grief of the British and American people that the valiant Russian soldiers who fought so bravely in the war have been misled into the position their government has placed them," he said.

The beaming Churchill was dressed in what he called his "striped suit" with a zipper front. He explained he wore it during air raids in England.

The suit was slightly open at the neck and he wore a white sports shirt.

Churchill said he had found in America "a tremendous awakening in the hearts of international affairs since his last visit three years ago."

"I think events are the teacher far more than the words of men," he commented.

Arkansan Becomes a 'Traveler'

Orlando, Fla., April 2 — (AP) — C. D. Lemon, 35, was an Arkansas traveler today.

City Court Judge Charles Cambron told him to travel yesterday. Lemon right out of town — or days in jail for shooting at a Negro cafeteria waiter who Lemon claimed "bumped" him.

Lemon, a winter visitor here, whose home is at Sison (White County), Ark., went into the Traymore cafeteria Wednesday for breakfast. About 100 persons were in the place which can seat approximately 300.

Lemon, according to the story reported by Police Chief J. C. Stone, didn't get mad right away. He went outside and stood on it and "the more he thought about it the madder he got."

So, said Chief Stone, Lemon came back into the cafeteria and started shooting with a .25 caliber pistol.

"Fortunately he was not too good a shot and no one was hit, but dozens of breakfasters abruptly left their orange juice, bacon and eggs and the waiter — St. Clair Patrick — was found later hiding near his home."

Lemon also disappeared but he was located in his rooming house and jailed for carrying a concealed weapon and for firing firearms in a public place.

Yesterday Judge Cambron fined him $50 and 60 days in each count but suspended sentence if he would leave town — which he did.

Chief Stone said Lemon was surprised about carrying the pistol, "Back home," Stone quoted him, "everyone carries one because we're always feuding and fighting."

'Strong' Notes Sent to Red Allies

Washington, April 2 — (AP) — With three strongly worded notes, the United States and Britain today warned the Soviet Union and a trio of Soviet bloc countries for "notorious" violation of peace treaty pledges.

The notes, delivered to Communist-run Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, formally demanded that they carry out promises to secure human rights and free elections for their peoples.

The two western nations had the support of Canada in bringing the charges.

If the notes are rejected — and it is expected they will be rejected — this country can call for action by a three-member commission, as provided in the treaties. The next step might be to carry the case to the United Nations.

The charges of "notorious" treaty-breaking were based in part on Hungary's imprisonment of Cardinal Mindszenty, the sentencing of Protestant church leaders in Bulgaria and the crushing of opposition by Communist leaders in Romania.

The American-British action, announced today by the state department, followed a promise by Secretary of State Acheson yesterday that the United States would bring the world's attention to the "tyranny" of the Eastern European countries under Communist control.

Acheson made the statement in answer to a petition from the national conference of Christians and Jews which protested the denial of religious freedom in Hungary and Bulgaria.

The state department announced that the Western powers propose to enforce their repeated demands on the former enemy countries which now take their cue from Moscow.

The three nations have identical provisions for religious disputes. They provide that disagreements shall first be referred to Russian, American and British representatives in the satellite capitals. If they fail to settle the quarrel within two months, with one member named by each party to the dispute and a third chosen by mutual agreement—possibly through the United Nations security council.

The three nations which signed the treaties agreed that the decision of such a commission would be binding. If they question this procedure now the Western powers would be in a position to accuse them of open defiance.

A further step would be an appeal for enforcement by the United Nations security council, but officials declined to say whether this would be done.

Senators Seek Final Approval of Europe Recovery Bill After Defeating Move to Slash Funds

Washington, April 2 — (AP) — A major victory under their belts, senate leaders pushed today toward final approval for the $5,580,000,000 European recovery program.

While a pile of policy-changing amendments lay ahead, what was probably the biggest threat to the bill for a second-year Marshall plan was smashed last night. That was the proposal of senators Taft (R-Ohio) and Russell (D-Ga) to cut the cash outlays for foreign aid to 10 per cent.

The senate beat back the Taft-Russell amendment by a vote of 54 to 23 vote. But because of the stack of amendments still awaiting action, there was a chance a final vote would be delayed until next week despite today's unusual Saturday session, a. m. CST.

In any case, Democratic Leader Lucas of Illinois said, all remaining amendments seemed sure to be defeated.

Lucas said he was surprised at the margin by which the economy move lost out, and added:

"The psychological effect throughout the world will be tremendous. The communists can't use this for propaganda and they can't say we wretched on our promise to Europe."

Fourteen Republicans and nine Democrats voted to cut the authorization which serves as a ceiling over later appropriations. But the Democrats, all were southerners except Senator Gillette of Iowa. Voting against the Taft-Russell proposal were 35 Democrats and 10 Republicans.

Before the crucial test on that amendment, the senate defeated on a 68 to 14 vote an amendment by Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, to lower the ceiling on the aid fund by 15 per cent. Taft and Russell both voted against this.

For the bipartisan managers of the authorization bill, the most troublesome proposal remaining appeared to be that of Senator Byrd (D-Me.) to cut off aid to the Netherlands and the Dutch quit fighting in Indonesia.

It was the Churchill response to the honor and the gold key which delighted his hearers.

Gone was the grim phrasing of his "13 men in the Kremlin" blast of the night before. He started the laughter with his first words — "I am of duty tonight."

He kept saying, saying, that now he could come and lecture M. I. T. whenever he chose. Now he would look on the Boston ten party "in a totally different light."

As long as applause swelled at his hand, Churchill held up the conductor of the U. S. Marine band that he "couldn't leave" without hearing the Marine Hymn.

The band struck up. Through the ranks sang the eloquent Churchill, all lips open over the words which boast that the streets of heaven are guarded by United States marines.

Ouachita Project Wins Approval

Washington, April 2 — (AP) — Proposed construction of a navigation channel up the Ouachita river has "on a round in a controversy with the U. S. Engineers."

District and division engineers recently recommended a $500,000 project which would have provided a nine-foot channel on the river most of the year.

A group of South Arkansians led by Rep. Harry (D-C) appealed to the U. S. Army engineers' and harbors board, urging that a more comprehensive, $9,000,000 plan for year-round navigation be adopted.

The board yesterday approved the latter plan.

The recommendation, which involves the Black river in Louisiana and the Ouachita in Arkansas, now goes to the chief of army engineers. If approved by him, the project will be submitted to congress for consideration and possible authorization.

In its recommendation, the board told Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) that the approved plan would provide year-round navigation from the mouth of the Black river to Camden, Ark.

Senator McClellan told newsmen the project is needed badly.

He said the industrial development and further the industrial development of southern Arkansas, he said, "I hope and expect the chief of engineers to concur in the recommendation of the board."

Representative Harris termed the recommendation a "great victory."

This recommendation means we have been upheld and the report of division engineers has been reversed," he added.

KXAR to Go on Air Half Hour Earlier

KXAR, Hope's radio station, will go on the air half an hour earlier, at 5:30 a. m., beginning Monday, April 4. Manager L. B. Tooley announced today.

The change recognizes the need for an earlier start in the day's broadcasting to farm audiences during Spring and Summer, Mr. Tooley said, and the new schedule was adopted by unanimous consent.

Sign-off time remains unchanged at 11 p. m.

Churchill at Best, Holds Audience

Boston, April 2 — (AP) — Winston Churchill, a dealer in drama, was remembered today for a smashing performance which he ended by singing the United States Marine Hymn.

He started it with a "thank you" speech for honors awarded him last night by Massachusetts Institute of Technology at its mid-century convocation.

It wasn't a long performance. But in the bulky British wartime leader was at his stage best.

One minute he had a distinguished audience of nearly 14,000 roaring over his sly comedy.

Next he brought them to a quick hush with bold and brave words like this wish for America and Britain:

"That we may continue to march shoulder to shoulder along the path of truth, of justice and of honor."

The unexpected Churchill show caused just after a solemn hour-long address by Harold E. Stassen, war-veteran president of the University of Pennsylvania.

As the Stassen speech ended, the curtain went up on Churchill.

Ernest Kirchner of Tulsa, Okla., presented Churchill with a gold key set with a carved beaver, the mascot symbol of the noted science institute.

Next, M. I. T. president Dr. James R. Killian Jr., awarded the honorary lectureship, first in the institute's 88-year-history, to go to a man not associated directly with Tech.

As Churchill stood, fidgeting a little, Dr. Killian cited him as a "warrior statesman, student, and maker of history x x x The 20th century symbol of resistance to oppression."

It was the Churchill response to the honor and the gold key which delighted his hearers.

Gone was the grim phrasing of his "13 men in the Kremlin

May Soon become a Collector's Item

Hollywood, March 31 —(P)—Chances increased today that the coveted academy award "Oscars," symbols of excellence in the motion picture art, soon will become a collector's item.
Five top movie producers have come out flatly with an announcement they are stopping their contributions to the awards.
Robert Montgomery, secretary of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences says without their support, the Oscars are a thing of the past.
The producers, in a joint statement from New York, indicated they are withdrawing financial aid to the awards to remove "any suspicion of company influence."
Montgomery, academy secretary, declared last night: "The academy is not in a financial position to sponsor the awards itself. And since the film companies benefit by the Oscars, it seems only fair that they should help contribute to the presentation ceremony."
Montgomery pointed out that the academy exploit to the limit any academy award won by their pictures.
The producers stated they will continue "moral support" of awards in general, if based on "democratic selection."
The statement was signed by Nicholas M. Schenck of Loew's (MGM), Barney Balaban of Paramount, Spyros P. Skouras of 20th-Century-Fox, Mel Albert Warner of Warner Brothers and Ned Depinet of RKO.
"I don't know what they are talking about," Montgomery said. "The academy award process is completely democratic. And the academy itself is as democratic as the Grand Central Station."

Truman Still Planning to Visit Arkansas

Washington, March 31 —(P)— President Truman said today he expects to remain in Washington throughout April and May.
That was his reply when asked at his news conference whether he might accept an invitation to speak to Temple University June 19. He never did say directly whether or not he would make the Temple talk.
He recently cancelled four out-of-town speaking engagements for April, giving as the reason the pressure of work here.
Despite the president's stay-at-home mood, aides expect him to visit Little Rock, Ark., June 10 for the annual reunion of the 35th division in France in the first world war.

A church home for those away from home and a welcome to all.

know is a kind of sickly little calf love that they outgrow in a few years, and that is no more like the deep and abiding love of a grown woman than skimmed milk is like cream.
Of course, girls at that age think they are in love, because they have never experienced any real love and so have no standard of comparison. They think they are in love because they get a kick out of meeting a boy and they fill their thoughts full of him, and they have a good time when he is absent.
But this is just because they are feeling the first thrill of adolescence, and it flatters them to death to realize that they have sex attraction, and they are so much in love with the idea of being in love that they can imagine themselves in love with any boy who happens along.
But, in reality, what they feel is only a passing fancy. They outgrow it as they do their taste for all-day suckers. Their ideas change from day to day. So don't take seriously what you feel now, little girl. They are just growing pains that you will get over.
Dear Miss Dix: I am a woman 30 years old and have lived with a very dear friend for years. Now this pal of mine is going to be married and has asked me to make my home with her. I love her dearly, but I am afraid if I go live with her it might interfere with her happiness. What is your advice?
GERTRUDE E.
Answer: Don't think of such a thing, because her husband would be more than human if he were not jealous of you. No man wants to have some other woman tagging along every time he takes his wife out of an evening and listening in on every conversation, they have. Don't go to live with your friend. Don't even visit her too often. Any third party in a home is a menace to it, and it is especially dangerous to the newlyweds.

NOTICE

Effective Monday, April 4th, the hauling of Cans and Garbage will be combined, the same contractor, Mr. Roy Bullard, hauling both. We feel this will enable the city to render much more efficient service and will give our Street Crew more time to work on the streets. The charge for the service has not been increased. The fifty cent monthly fee covers both.

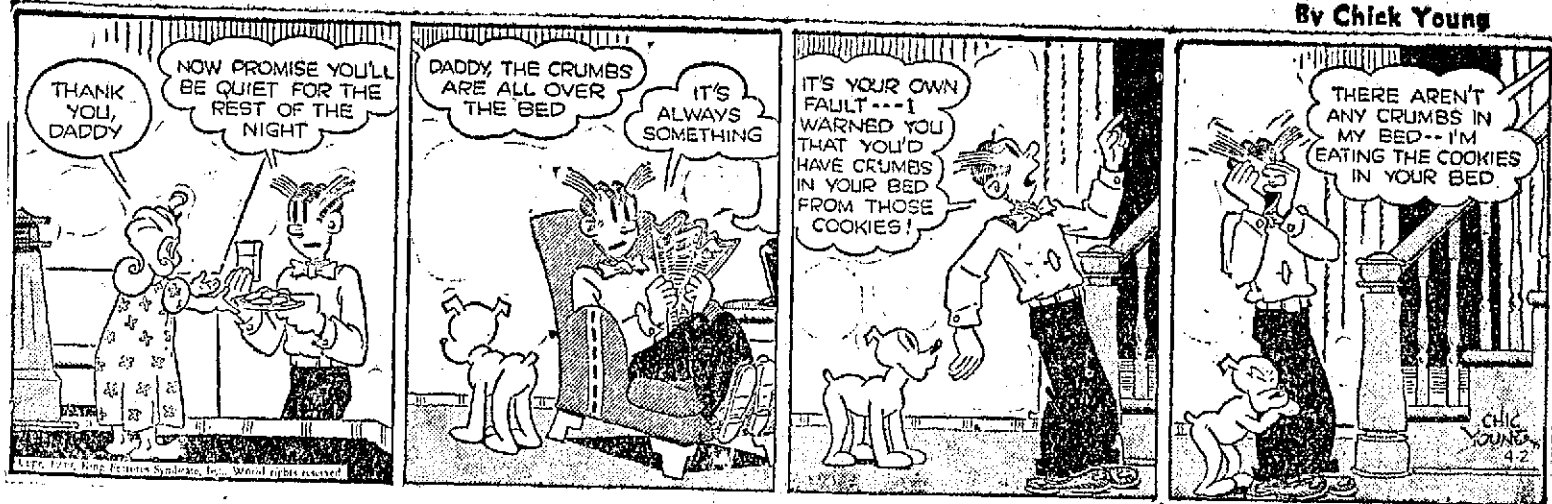

The success of the project has a direct relationship to the health of the community and we will appreciate the co-operation of all citizens who are in need of the service. If you are not now being served call Mr. Bullard, Telephone 27W12, or the Water & Light Office, telephone 421, and have them put you on the list.
